INTRODUCTION

- What were the Crusades?
- The Crusades were basically many wars between the Christians and the Muslims who fought to control what they thought was their Holy Land, now commonly referred to as Israel. This is where Jesus lived and died. Israel was filled with sacred places and pilgrimage sites. They were supported and sometimes directed by the Latin Church (the Pope Urban II) in the medieval period.

HOW DID THE CRUSADES START AND WHO WAS INVOLVED?

- On November 27 1095, The Crusades started with the Pope Urban II saying that the knights were to join the army and if they listened: all there sins would be forgiven and they would find paradise. This was how the pope got them into it. Soon after lots more people started to join in on the crusades. Then it became a war against the Cristians and the Muslim's.

WHAT WERE SOME EFFECTS FROM THE CRUSADES?

- Many people died and that affected the whole feudal society. There were few workers for the feudal lands.
- The crusades allowed many people to move and explore other places. It also educated more people to learn about different parts of Europe along with; medicine, astronomy, philosophy and literature.
- The crusades also made others trade from other places and it opened a European economy and improved normal living. It also made people explore further. People traded things like; fabric, spices and perfumes.
- Transportation improved a lot. It opened up travel to the world so others could explore new places. Without transportation, our lives would be significantly different.
- Religion: the crusades made relationship between the two religions worse. Muslim's would refer to Christians as bloody and savage.

WHAT WERE THE CHRISTIANS' PERSPECTIVE ON THE CRUSADES?

- The Christians started the first Crusade and won the first one. The crusades gave them good and bad. The Crusades were ended because of money.

WHAT WAS THE HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CRUSADES?

- I think that the Crusades were considered very important at the time. The Crusades very much impacted everybody in some way. It was a series of many wars.
- The effects of the Crusades were very long lasting. There are even long lasting effects to this day. The Crusades opened up economy for the rest of the world.
- Did the Crusades create a larger issue?
- Yes, the Crusades ended because of a lack of money left. The Crusades created the larger issue because of a lack of common resources like food.

CONCLUSION...

- We can take away a lot from learning about the Crusades. The main thing I take away from this project is that the crusades were hard and it was definitely a major time in history. The crusades effected lots of people in that time and it changed the Christian and Muslim religions deeply.
