

Comic Book Analysis Charts:

Duplicate the Chart for as many Comic Books that you read!

Name of Comic Book:	Batman the killing joke
Author:	Alan Moore
Protagonist(s): (Main character / Hero)	Batman
Antagonist(s): (Main character(s) working against our protagonist)	Joker
Gutter Styles: (colour, organization, size)	Very distinct white gutters, thick and usually in a square or rectangle shape.
Mood: (what is the feeling or vibe of this comic? What emotions does it evoke? Excitement, fear, love, joy etc.)	Fearful, excited, frustrated, sympathetic,
Slow Scene: (describe the scene. How do you know time has slowed down?)	When they go back in time they show the scenes in black and white. Another example is when they just show doors which is where one particular character is, and new doors on each panel showing he's moving. Pg 38 and 39
Action Scene: (describe the scene. How do you know time has sped up?)	You see them from different angles in a moving position with motion line behind them. Sometimes you just see a bit of the character implying that they're moving fast.
Connection: (How can you connect this story / art / protagonist to something personal to you?)	This comic book is like some other books I read. It contains action and mystery, there is always a good side and a bad side. I like these book because it keeps you wanting to read more and and know the end of the book, you never know what's going to happen next.

Duplicate the Chart for as many Comic Books that you read!

Name of Comic Book:	DC The New Frontier
Author:	Darwyn Cooke
Protagonist(s): (Main character / Hero)	Hal, superman, flash, wonder women.
Antagonist(s): (Main character(s) working against our protagonist)	Captain cold. Other criminals of the
Gutter Styles: (colour, organization, size)	The most common style for each page is to have three panels with thick white gutter surrounding them.
Mood: (what is the feeling or vibe of this comic? What emotions does it evoke? Excitement, fear, love, joy etc.)	Excitement, optimistic, stressed, hopeless, grateful.
Slow Scene: (describe the scene. How do you know time has slowed down?)	The picture in the panels are roughly the same showing little difference even in an action scene showing that its moving in slow motion and that a character outside the panel is moving faster.
Action Scene: (describe the scene. How do you know time has sped up?)	Sometimes there will be more boxes. So where there would normally be one long panel it would be split up into 3 or 4 panels.
Connection: (How can you connect this story / art / protagonist to something personal to you?)	Just like Hal I've always wanted to fly among the stars. Pg.137. The stars are something I've liked since i was young. I love star gazing and so to actually be able to fly up among the stars would be absolutely amazing!

