

I am very happy with the photos that i took today. The first photo is a worms view photo and the second is a silhouette with a shipping container thing in the background

For this photo i took a picture of a basket ball hoop and used markup to make it look like a small house. I added detail like windows and a door with a doorknob.

In this photo i learned to create a calm still image. I made sure the camera was close to the water

This photo demonstrated my knowledge of different types of photos specifically panoramas. I tried to also make the photo interesting putting the same person twice in the panorama.
