

Once upon a time, there was a man named Sam with glass hands. Sam having glass hands made it tricky to carry heavy loads or even snap. For such an act could damage his fragile hands. After he graduated, his plan for figuring out what he wanted to become in life started with interning for a bunch of different companies to see how he fairs. His first choice was the construction company, but he realized soon enough that his hands would shatter under the pressure of bricks. This left him sad and disjointed yet, he told himself there are other opportunities out there for him. His second choice was the skydiving company but, that too could easily threaten the security of his see-through hands. His final choice, the barber company was the perfect job, he thinks he finally figured out who he wants to be, Sam the hair cutter man.